

Autumn 1970

The Ohio State University Commencement

To Our New Alumni:

Welcome, a warm welcome, to the ranks of the alumni of The Ohio State University. Back in 1878 there were six alumni—new and untested. This small group has grown in 1970 to an alumni body of tens of thousands who have received degrees here, and our loyal Ohio State University Association has built the second largest organized constituency that exists among universities today.

The modern alumnus is a dedicated servant of education. The fruits of a good education—the critical mind, the discerning spirit, the higher values, the sense of commitment, and the privilege of service—are exemplified in tens of thousands of our products.

In a very real sense, the alumni are members of the family and full-fledged partners in the enterprise—in Ohio, in the nation, and throughout the world.

What can you do for the University? There seems to be general agreement on four major services which alumni can be counted on to render: 1) the ambassadorial service of representing Ohio State well wherever they go; 2) the service of strengthening Ohio State's resources through participation in the Development Fund; 3) the recruiting service of well-qualified students to Ohio State; and 4) the advisory service of strengthening Ohio State's role in society.

A great university is composed of many diverse people and many diverse ideas; so is society as a whole—and our alumni are the people best able to provide the vital link between our campus and its environment. With your assistance, we cannot fail to meet this challenge.

The University extends to you a year's free membership in the Association and with it will come automatically a subscription to THE MONTHLY, a magazine devoted to the task of helping you "keep in touch" with our exciting pursuit of human excellence.

Congratulations to you—and to your families and friends. You are joining a great family, for Ohio State is permanent among so many impermanencies. Your University is something to come back to—growing ever more rich and mellow in spirit.

We invite you to join with all of your fellow alumni in celebrating the Centennial of The Ohio State University throughout 1970!

Sincerely,

C. GORDON JELLIFFE

The Centennial Achievement Award

The Centennial Achievement Award recognizes one hundred living alumni, former faculty or staff members, and friends of The Ohio State University for performance and leadership that have brought honor to themselves, their professions, and to this University. It might be said that those being recognized have demonstrated those qualities for which this University has labored these one hundred years.

Nominations for the Centennial Achievement Award were submitted by the faculties of the various colleges and the Graduate School. Nominees were chosen from among eminent individuals who had not previously been awarded an honorary degree or Distinguished Service Award or who are not currently active members of the faculty or staff. These nominations were then evaluated over a period of months by a committee of six members of the faculty, senior in rank and in tenure. Their final selections were in turn submitted to the University Board of Trustees for approval.

The recipients of the Centennial Achievement Award were presented with a mounted Centennial medallion and a certificate during ceremonies at the Center for Tomorrow on December 17, 1970. On the occasion of its Centennial celebration, The Ohio State University proudly greets a most distinguished contingent of those who serve.

NELSON E. ABRAHAMSEN, SR., Cleveland, Ohio

Practicing Optometrist.

B.S. in Optometry, The Ohio State University, 1930; D.O.S., Illinois College of Optometry, 1968.

Dr. Abrahamson has earned national recognition for his work in raising educational standards for colleges and schools of optometry and for implementing the Optometric Progress Fund, a national development program for the support of optometric education. A long-time member of the Council on Education of the American Optometric Association, the accrediting body for colleges and schools of optometry, he has served twice as its chairman. He has also served with distinction on the Ohio Optometry Board. He is an honorary life member of The Ohio State University Optometry Alumni Association and is chairman of the dean's Advisory Committee of the College of Optometry.

PHILIP R. ADAMS, Cincinnati, Ohio

Director, Cincinnati Art Museum.

B.A., The Ohio State University, 1929; M.A., New York University, 1931; Litt. D., Miami University, 1949; L.H.D., University of Cincinnati, 1964.

Following nearly twenty years as director of the Columbus Gallery of Fine Arts, Dr. Adams became director of the Cincinnati Art Museum in 1945. His effectiveness in this role is evidenced by the community support he has enlisted in reorganizing and enlarging the museum and its permanent collection and by the fact that the recent addition to the museum has been named the Emory-Adams Wing. He served as consultant on the design of The Ohio State University Centennial Medallion.

DOROTHY ADKINS, Honolulu, Hawaii

Professor and Researcher, Education Research and Development Center, University of Hawaii.

B.S. in Education 1931, Ph.D. 1937, The Ohio State University.

Dr. Adkins, among the nation's most distinguished women psychologists, is one of the few persons of her sex to hold highly responsible positions in both governmental and academic areas. Her career in government has included service as chief for Research and Test Construction for the United States Social Security Board and as policy consultant and chief of Test Development for the United States Civil Service Commission. Before joining the faculty of the University of Hawaii, she was professor and chairman of the Department of Psychology at the University of North Carolina. In addition to writing numerous articles, she is the author of texts in test construction and psychological statistics.

HAROLD B. ALBERTY, Columbus, Ohio

Professor Emeritus of Curriculum and Foundations, College of Education, The Ohio State University.

Ph.B., Baldwin University, 1912; LL.B., Cleveland Law School, 1913; M.A. 1923, Ph.D. 1926, The Ohio State University.

Dr. Alberty's name is synonymous with The Ohio State University Laboratory School and the Progressive Education Association. He worked with John Dewey; served, in 1953, as a member of the Department of State Mission to Germany; and received the 1958 Shattuck Centennial Award for Advancement of Secondary Education. The author of numerous books and articles, he also edited Educational Administration and Supervision (1946-59), Reorganizing the High School Curriculum, which he co-authored, is a classic in the field.

JOHN C. ALSTON, Wilberforce, Ohio

Chairman, Department of Social Welfare, Central State University.
B.A., The Ohio State University, 1937; M.A., Howard University, 1940; Ph.D., The Ohio State University, 1947.

Dr. Alston organized the Department of Social Welfare at Central State University and has served as its chairman for twenty-one years. An outstanding teacher, administrator, and researcher, he has also served as dean of the Central State University College of Arts and Sciences (1962-65). Dr. Alston has gladly given of his time and counsel to local, state, and regional welfare programs, as well as to many educational and professional associations. He is a past president and secretary of the National Association of Schools of Social Administration and has written numerous papers.

DONALD B. ANDERSON, Chapel Hill, North Carolina

University Professor of Botany and Consultant to the President of the University, University of North Carolina.

A.B., B.S. 1920; A.M. 1922; Ph.D. 1925, The Ohio State University.

Professor Anderson is a renowned teacher, scientific investigator, and administrator. He was a faculty member of North Carolina State College for thirty-three years and served as provost (1958-60) and vice president (1960-66) of the University of North Carolina. His research on cell wall and fiber structure pioneered in these areas, and he has published many papers in this field. His leadership has been manifest in academic affairs, in important governmental assignments, and as president of the Society of Plant Physiologists.

RAYMOND Q. ARMINGTON, Willoughby, Ohio

President, Triax Company.

B.I.E., The Ohio State University, 1928.

Mr. Armington is a civic leader, engineering innovator, and industry builder. He helped found the Euclid Road Machinery Company, which became the Euclid Division, General Motors. He conceived and founded Triax Automatic Storage, a system for vertical storage. Mr. Armington is chairman of the University Circle Development Foundation, of which he was a charter member. He is also a trustee of Case-Western Reserve University, director of the Cleveland Chamber of Commerce, chairman of the Greater Cleveland Education Research Council, and trustee or director of eight large businesses.

CURTIS P. ARTZ, Charleston, South Carolina

Professor and Chairman, Department of Surgery, Medical College of South Carolina.

B.A. 1936, M.D. 1939, The Ohio State University; M.S. (Surg.), Baylor University, 1951.

Dr. Artz is nationally recognized as an authority on burns and trauma. He was the first Shrine Professor of Surgery devoted to the care and treatment of burns at the University of Texas Medical Branch, Galveston, Texas (1963-65). He served in the Army Medical Corps from 1948 to 1956 and was commanding officer, United States Army Surgical Research Unit and chief of the Research Service at Brooke Army Medical Center, Fort Sam Houston, Texas (1953-56). An active teacher and medical administrator, Dr. Artz plays a major role in many national surgical organizations.

RICHARD T. BAKER, Cleveland, Ohio

Managing Partner, Ernst & Ernst.

B.S., The Ohio State University, 1939.

As managing partner, Mr. Baker coordinates all the activities of Ernst & Ernst, an international partnership of accountants and management consultants. His social concern is keen, and he has been the moving force behind the first nonrestricted businessmen's club in Cleveland. His extensive involvement in civic and professional organizations also has served as an example for others in his firm. Mr. Baker's interest in quality education in Ohio led to his appointment as one of the first nine members of the Ohio Board of Regents.

WILLIAM M. BATTEN, New York, New York

Chairman of the Board, J.C. Penney Company.

B.S., The Ohio State University, 1932; LL.D., Morris Harvey College, 1960; L.H.D., Marietta College, 1965; LL.D., West Virginia University, 1966.

Mr. Batten began his long career with the J.C. Penney Company during his undergraduate years at Ohio State. He has risen through the ranks from extra salesman to the company's highest office. A creative administrator with a strong belief in the abilities of young men and women, Mr. Batten has applied his talent and dynamism to many civic and professional groups, including the National Urban League, the American Retail Federation, the National Retail Merchants Association, and the National Commission on Food Marketing. He is a member of the Business Council, Washington, D.C., and a director of the American Telephone and Telegraph Company, the Boeing Company, and the First National City Bank of New York.

THEODORE N. BECKMAN, Columbus, Ohio

Professor Emeritus of Marketing, College of Administrative Science, The Ohio State University.

B.S. 1920, M.A. 1922, Ph.D. 1924, The Ohio State University.

An educator, researcher, and author, Dr. Beckman has pioneered in the field of marketing. He is known internationally as the author of several basic texts and an unending list of professional articles. In 1965, after serving for forty-four years on The Ohio State University faculty, he was named professor emeritus. Many of his former students have become distinguished corporate administrators and educators. Dr. Beckman has been accorded nearly every major marketing award and has served as an officer of numerous national professional organizations.

ORVILLE G. BRIM, Lakeville, Connecticut

Professor (Retired), College of Education, The Ohio State University.

B.S., Valparaiso University, 1907; M.A. 1911, Ph.D. 1920, Teacher's College, Columbia University.

An educator at The Ohio State University in the 1920s and 1930s, Dr. Brim strongly believed in integrating the concept of doing with learning. His innovations in elementary education included designing blocks of courses rather than subject title method courses. He was a major contributor to the beginnings of elementary teacher education on the Ohio State campus and to the establishment of University School. His pioneer work in rural education has earned him national recognition.

PAUL W. BROWN, Columbus, Ohio

Attorney General of Ohio.

B.A. 1937, J.D. 1939, The Ohio State University.

Justice Brown has had distinguished careers in both law and education. Following the private practice of law in Youngstown, Ohio, he joined the faculty of Youngstown University in 1946 and later was named assistant to the president of the university. From 1960 to 1964 he was judge of the Seventh District Court of Appeals of Ohio. He then served as justice of the Supreme Court of Ohio for four years and has been attorney general of the State of Ohio since 1969. He belongs to numerous organizations and professional associations. During World War II, while serving with the United States Army, he was awarded the Silver Star for bravery in action.

ROBERT H. BRUCE, Laramie, Wyoming

Dean, Graduate School, University of Wyoming.

B.A., The Ohio State University, 1928; M.A., University of California, 1930; Ph.D. The Ohio State University, 1932.

A leader in the fields of psychology and graduate education, Dr. Bruce has been dean of the Graduate School of the University of Wyoming since 1946. Before that he headed the university's Department of Psychology. He was chief of the Graduate Fellowship Section of the United States Office of Education (1960-61). Dr. Bruce has been a member of the Executive Committee of the Council of Graduate Schools in the United States, the Committee on Colleges and Universities of the North Central Association, the National Dental Research Council, and has served as chairman of the Western Association of Graduate Schools. He has frequently contributed to scientific journals in psychology and graduate education.

MILTON CANIFF, Palm Springs, California

Cartoonist.

B.F.A., The Ohio State University, 1930.

Mr. Caniff entered the cartoonist field as a high school student in Dayton, Ohio. He continued his apprenticeship while attending Ohio State, working for the Columbus Dispatch. After graduation he began development of the cartoon strips "Terry and the Pirates" and later "Steve Canyon." His work is carried by 350 newspapers, and his name has been commonplace for more than three decades. A staunch friend and supporter of his alma mater, Mr. Caniff designed the Centennial Medallion and was active in the planning and execution of Charter Weekend activities in March 1970.

KENNETH E. CLARK, Rochester, New York

Dean, College of Arts and Science, University of Rochester.

B.S. 1935, M.A. 1937, Ph.D. 1940, The Ohio State University.

A well-known educator and psychologist, Dr. Clark has had a distinguished academic career. His major fields of scholarly interest center on opinion measurement and test development, and he has contributed numerous articles to publications in these areas. Before coming to the University of Rochester in 1963, he had served for two years as dean of the College of Arts and Sciences at the University of Colorado. From 1940 to 1961 he was on the faculty of the University of Minnesota in a variety of teaching and administrative posts.

Professor Emeritus of Management, College of Administrative Science, The Ohio State University.

M.E., Cornell University, 1916; M.A., The Ohio State University, 1926; D.Sc., Wayne State University, 1964.

Widely honored and respected for his contributions to management research and education, Professor Davis retired in 1965 after thirty-nine years on The Ohio State University faculty. Few persons have made such outstanding contributions to his field. Professor Davis has earned an international reputation for his scholarly research and writing and for his development of the talents of young men and women. He also helped organize several major continuing education programs at Ohio State.

* FOSTER RHEA DULLES, Dorset, Vermont

Professor Emeritus of History, College of Humanities, The Ohio State University.

B.A., Princeton University, 1921; Ph.D., Columbia University, 1940.

A nationally known historian, Dr. Dulles was a journalist and the holder of a Guggenheim Fellowship before beginning his teaching career. He was professor of history at The Ohio State University from 1941 to 1965 and served as chairman of the department for five years (1953-58). In addition to his distinguished service at Ohio State, he taught at a number of institutions including the American University, Beirut, Lebanon. Dr. Dulles was a Fulbright Lecturer at the University of Tokyo (1961-62) and served the United States State Department as a cultural exchange visitor to India and the Soviet Union. He contributed to the literature of American social and diplomatic history.

* Deceased 9-11-70

THOMAS E. ERVIN, New York, New York

Executive Vice President and General Counsel, National Broadcasting Company.

B.A., The Ohio State University, 1932; LL.B., Columbia University, 1935.

One of broadcasting's leading legal figures, Mr. Ervin has had a distinguished career in the legal profession, in government service, and as an able and constructive participant in the development of responsible and effective communications media in this country. Before joining NBC in 1948, Mr. Ervin was deputy United States chief of counsel for war crimes at Nuremberg, Germany (1946-47), acting as chief prosecutor for the United States in one of the trials.

MARTIN ESSEX, Columbus, Ohio

Superintendent of Public Instruction, State of Ohio.

B.S. 1930, M.A. 1934, The Ohio State University; D. Pd., Baldwin-Wallace College, 1950; LL.D., University of Akron, 1958; LL.D., Ohio University, 1970.

Respected nationally as a leader in professional development, curriculum design, legislation, and school management, Dr. Essex has been closely associated with the action areas of American education. He has served as superintendent of Ohio public schools in Akron, Lakewood, East Liverpool, and Middleport, and was president of the American Association of School Administrators in 1960. As chairman of the President's Advisory Council on Vocational Education (1967-68), he directed a major national assessment of vocational education. The council's recommendations formed the framework for the Vocational Education Act of 1968.

H. WARD EWALT, JR., Pittsburgh, Pennsylvania
Practicing Optometrist.

B.S. in Optometry, The Ohio State University, 1929; D.Sc., Pennsylvania College of Optometry, 1969.

Dr. Ewalt has rendered exceptional service to optometric education and research. He was active in the formation of the Council on Education of the American Optometric Association, which accredits schools and colleges of optometry, and is a member of the National Commission on Accrediting. A past president of the American Optometric Association, he is a member of the United States Health Service Advisory Council on Education in the Health Professions and represents the College of Optometry on the Ohio State Alumni Advisory Board. He also helped organize the Sheard fund, which supports vision research at Ohio State.

Chairman of the Board, Fisher-New Center Company.

B.S., The Ohio State University, 1930; L.H.D., University of Israel, 1967; D.B.A., Albion College, 1968.

Mr. Fisher is the founder of the Aurora Oil Company, which merged with Marathon Oil in 1957. He is a board member of a long list of major American industries and a dedicated international philanthropist. He has served as an adviser to the State of Israel since its birth; has directed one of the country's largest urban coalition groups, New Detroit, Inc.; and has headed the United Jewish Appeal. As a special consultant to President Richard M. Nixon, Mr. Fisher was one of the organizers of the National Center for Voluntary Action.

M. JUDAH FOLKMAN, Boston, Massachusetts

Julia Dyckman Andrus Professor of Pediatric Surgery, Harvard Medical School; Surgeon-in-Chief, Children's Hospital Medical Center, Boston.

B.A., The Ohio State University, 1953; M.D., Harvard Medical School, 1957.

Dr. Folkman's imaginative contributions in surgical research, combined with his interest in teaching and his ability as a clinical surgeon, resulted in his appointment as professor of surgery, Harvard Medical School, and surgeon-in-chief, Children's Hospital Medical Center, Boston, at the age of 36. He has contributed many new ideas to surgery, particularly in the field of infusion of anesthetic and other drugs through siliconized rubber.

ROBERT G. FRIEDMAN, Tiffin, Ohio

Retired President, National Machinery Company.

M.E., Case Institute of Technology.

Through Mr. Friedman's generous support of the arts at The Ohio State University, a number of guest artists have been brought to the campus for the enrichment of students. He has had a keen interest in music since high school and has written several works, including "Cedar Point Parade," performed by The Ohio State University Marching Band in the award-winning film, One Up Front. Two of his compositions appear on "Time and Change," the University's Centennial recording; "When Twilight Comes," performed by the Women's Glee Club, and "Dixieland Concerto," played by the Marching Band.

HAROLD V. GASKILL, Washington, D.C.

Vice President-Planning, Financial General Corporation.

B.A. 1926, M.A. 1927, Ph.D. 1930, The Ohio State University.

Dr. Gaskill has had a long and successful career in the academic, governmental, and business worlds. He joined Financial General Corporation in 1962, where he deals with personnel selection and research and development. He has also been affiliated with the International Bank since 1962. Dr. Gaskill was on the faculty of Iowa State College from 1930 to 1956, serving the last twenty years of this period as dean of sciences and as scientific director of the Science Research Institute. He was chief scientist and deputy chief for research and development, United States Army (1951-52).

PAUL R. GINGHER, Columbus, Ohio

Partner, Gingher & Christensen; President, State Automobile Mutual Insurance Company.

Attended The Ohio State University; LL.B., University of Cincinnati, 1922.

Mr. Gingher has successfully combined four major professional and social interests throughout much of his life. He is a leader in the insurance industry; a prominent lawyer and former member of the Ohio Senate; a contributor to local, state, and national automobile association campaigns for increased automobile safety; and a leader in a variety of civic organizations. An active supporter of the College of Administrative Science at The Ohio State University, he has been that college's representative to the Alumni Advisory Board.

LEE V. GOSSICK, Wright-Patterson Air Force Base, Ohio

Major General, United States Air Force.

B.A.E., M.Sc., The Ohio State University, 1951.

General Gossick is an outstanding military leader, pilot, administrator, and researcher. During his illustrious career he has directed and guided numerous critical military research projects. He has served in the United States Air Force as a commander, Arnold Engineering Development Center, and as chief of the Space Division, Directorate of Advanced Engineering. Since 1941 he has held various Army and Air Force assignments. He is now vice commander of the Aeronautical Systems Division of the United States Air Force (the management control point for the development and acquisition of aeronautical systems and related equipment) and concurrently serves as deputy for the F-111 fighter airplane development program. His decorations include the Air Medal, the Distinguished Flying Cross, and the Legion of Merit.

DAVID T. GRIGGS, Los Angeles, California

Professor of Geophysics, Institute of Geophysics and Planetary Physics, University of California at Los Angeles.

B.A. 1932, M.A. 1933, The Ohio State University.

Professor Griggs is a leader in geophysics and the physics of the materials of the earth's crust. He began his work in experimental structural geology at Ohio State and continued it at Harvard, where he was a junior fellow. His work on the deformation of rocks at high pressures and temperatures has earned him international recognition. A member of the National Academy of Sciences, he has served in many governmental and professional positions and has held office in numerous national and international organizations.

WILLARD F. GUARD, St. Petersburg, Florida

Professor Emeritus of Veterinary Clinical Sciences, College of Veterinary Medicine, The Ohio State University.

D.V.M., The Ohio State University, 1912.

Scrupulous adherence to sound scientific and surgical principles marked the teaching of Dr. Guard. As chairman of The Ohio State University's Department of Veterinary Surgery and Clinics, he brought clinical practices and equipment to the veterinary hospital, which made the hospital the pioneer veterinary facility of its day. His text on equine surgery is basic to veterinary education throughout the world. As a veterinarian and teacher, humanitarian and patriot, Dr. Guard championed and instilled in his students principles that will remain basic tenets of organized veterinary medicine.

OREN BERKLEY GUM, New Orleans, Louisiana

Professor of Medicine, Tulane University.

B.S. Agr. 1941, Ph.D. 1944, M.D. 1950, The Ohio State University.

Dr. Gum's work is characterized by unusual incisiveness because of his broad basic scientific background. His doctorate in biochemistry was based on the metabolism of trace elements in plants. After wartime service in the Radiation Laboratory at Massachusetts Institute of Technology, he earned his medical degree while doing research on the localization of radioactive cobalt in tumors. He has since become recognized as an authority on metabolic diseases, particularly arthritis; as a researcher; and as a devoted teacher of physicians. Before going to Tulane he served for several years on the faculty of the University of Colorado.

CARL W. HALL, Pullman, Washington

Dean, College of Engineering, Washington State University

B.S. 1948, B. Agr. E. 1948, The Ohio State University; M.M.E., University of Delaware, 1950; Ph.D., Michigan State University, 1952.

An outstanding teacher, researcher, administrator, and author, Dr. Hall went to Washington State University in 1970 after nineteen years on the faculty of the Department of Agricultural Engineering at Michigan State University, the last six years as chairman of the department. He has written seven books and contributed to eight more, as well as some 260 general and technical articles. Dr. Hall has served as a consultant for several universities and for the United Nations and has visited and worked in many countries, including Colombia, the Soviet Union, Taiwan, Ecuador, and Nigeria. Active in numerous professional organizations, he has held important offices in several.

T. KLINE HAMILTON, Columbus, Ohio

President, Diamond Milk Products, Inc.

Attended The Ohio State University; LL.D., Capital University.

For some forty-five years Mr. Hamilton has demonstrated unusual leadership qualities as a successful business executive; as an officer, trustee, or committeeman in a multitude of industrial, civic, and church organizations; and as a consultant, adviser, and participant in government programs at local, state, national, and international levels. He has been a delegate to two White House conferences and a United States delegate to three international Dairy Congresses. An initiator and contributor to dairy food research programs through The Ohio State University Development Fund, Mr. Hamilton helped establish the Ohio Dairy Products Research Fund in 1942 and the L. H. Burgwald Memorial Fund in 1968. He has been an influential member of the Dairy Technology Advisory Committee for Education and Research since its inception in 1964.

Stage, screen, and television actress.

B.A., The Ohio State University, 1942.

The recipient of numerous awards, including the New York Drama Critics Variety Poll Award, the Sylvania Award, and an Academy Award nomination, Miss Heckart made her professional debut in 1943. Among her many stage performances have been roles in Picnic, The Bad Seed, A Memory of Two Mondays, A View from the Bridge, The Dark at the Top of the Stairs, Too True to Be Good, You Know I Can't Hear You When the Water's Running, Mother Courage, and, currently, Butterflies Are Free. She appeared in The Ohio State University's 1964 Stadium Theatre production of The Little Foxes.

JUDSON C. HICKEY, Augusta, Georgia

Dean, School of Dentistry, Medical College of Georgia.

D.D.S. 1950, M.Sc. 1955, The Ohio State University.

Recognized for research and nationally known from publications and lectures, Dr. Hickey has instituted unique laboratory and clinical teaching programs in dental education. He remained on the teaching staff of Ohio State's Colleges of Dentistry and Medicine following graduation and was twice voted outstanding instructor in the College of Dentistry. He was assistant dean, College of Dentistry, University of Kentucky, before going to the Medical College of Georgia, where he developed curriculum, faculty, and plans for the original physical plant for this new college. He has contributed many articles to current literature in dentistry.

JOSEPH S. HIMES, JR., Greensboro, North Carolina

Professor, Department of Sociology and Anthropology, University of North Carolina at Greensboro.

B.A. 1931, M.A. 1932, Oberlin College; Ph.D., The Ohio State University, 1942.

Dr. Himes' recent appointment to the University of North Carolina faculty follows twenty-three years as a member and chairman of the sociology faculty at North Carolina College in Durham. An outstanding scholar, he has been honored in many ways—Fulbright lectureships at Helsinki University, Finland, and Madras University, India; and a postdoctoral fellowship at the University of California (Berkeley). He is in great demand as a guest lecturer and has written two sociology textbooks. He has served on the boards of many health and welfare agencies in his home community.

JOE R. HOFFER, Columbus, Ohio

Executive Secretary, National Conference on Social Welfare.

B.S. 1932, Ph.D. 1942, The Ohio State University.

An international leader, social work practitioner, consultant, and social welfare administrator, Dr. Hoffer is best known for his leadership of two major social welfare organizations—the National and the International Conferences on Social Welfare, both voluntary associations of social welfare agencies and individual social welfare workers. Under his direction, the two educational forums have expanded in size and have become increasingly relevant to contemporary social issues. An expert in information retrieval, Dr. Hoffer has developed systems for classifying and indexing social welfare documents and also is a frequent consultant to national welfare commissions and projects.

PHILIP G. HOFFMAN, Houston, Texas

President, University of Houston.

He served the State of Ohio as attorney general in 1957-58 and again from 1963 to 1968. A member of the Ohio General Assembly for several terms, he was majority leader of the House of Representatives (1951-52) and Speaker of the House (1953-54). He holds membership in numerous associations and organizations.

WILLIAM J. SCHULL, Ann Arbor, Michigan

Professor of Human Genetics, University of Michigan.

B.S. 1946, M.S. 1947, Marquette University; Ph.D., The Ohio State University, 1949.

An authority on the genetic effects of ionizing radiations, Dr. Schull continues to serve as a consultant on human genetics to national and international agencies. He has achieved an international reputation as a result of his leadership as head of the Department of Genetics of the Atomic Bomb Casualty Commission and through his teaching and research at the University of Michigan. He and his students have made many contributions in the effects of inbreeding on the genetic burden in population and on the use of computers to simulate evolution in small human populations.

ARTHUR E. SCHWARTING, Storrs, Connecticut

Dean, School of Pharmacy, The University of Connecticut.

B.S., South Dakota State University, 1940; Ph.D., The Ohio State University, 1943.

A noted teacher, researcher, and writer, Dr. Schwarting obtained the first Ph.D. from The Ohio State University College of Pharmacy. He is internationally known in the area of pharmacognosy and natural product chemistry. He is the editor of Lloydia, journal of the American Society of Pharmacognosy, which he helped found; was the first chairman of the Pharmacognosy and Natural Products Section of the Academy of Pharmaceutical Sciences; and received the Research Achievement Award from the American Pharmaceutical Association Foundation and the University of Connecticut Alumni Association Award for Faculty Excellence in Research.

PAUL B. SEARS, Taos, New Mexico

Professor Emeritus of Conservation, Yale University.

B.S., Ohio Wesleyan University, 1913; B.S. 1914, M.S. 1915, University of Nebraska; Ph.D., University of Chicago, 1922.

One of the most respected and honored ecologists in America today, Professor Sears began his teaching career at The Ohio State University and taught at the University of Nebraska, the University of Oklahoma, and Oberlin College before going to Yale in 1950. He has devoted his life to furthering man's understanding of the delicately balanced ecosystems on which our very survival exists. His ability to explain complex environmental problems clearly and simply has alerted his colleagues, students, and fellow citizens to past ecological fiascoes, present problems, and impending environmental crises.

WILLIAM G. SHAFER, Indianapolis, Indiana

Professor and Chairman, Department of Oral Pathology, Indiana University.

B.S., University of Toledo, 1943; D.D.S., The Ohio State University, 1947; M.S., University of Rochester, 1949.

A diplomate of the American Board of Oral Pathology and a past president of the American Academy of Oral Pathology, Dr. Shafer is recognized by his students and peers not only as an outstanding teacher and lecturer but as one who has contributed significantly to advances in dental education. He is the author of a textbook on oral pathology and more than one hundred articles in current dental and medical journals. Since 1960 Dr. Shafer has been consultant in oral pathology to the surgeon general of the United States Air Force. He has taught at Indiana University since 1950.

Professor Emeritus of Psychology, College of Social and Behavioral Sciences, The Ohio State University.

B.S., Iowa State Teachers College, 1927; M.A., Columbia University, 1932; Ph.D., The Ohio State University, 1933.

Dr. Shartle has had a distinguished governmental and academic career. His federal government service included positions with the Department of Labor, Social Security Board, and Employment Service. He returned to the academic world in 1944 as professor of psychology and chairman of the Personnel Research Board at The Ohio State University and later served as associate dean of the College of Commerce. During leaves of absence from the University, he made important contributions to the United States Air Force Human Resources Research Institute and later to the United States Department of Defense as chief of the Psychology and Social Sciences Division. Dr. Shartle's book, Leadership, is internationally recognized as a classic.

BYRON T. SHAW, Port Charlotte, Florida

Administrator (Retired), Agricultural Research Service, United States Department of Agriculture.

B.S., Utah State Agricultural College, 1930; M.S., Brigham Young University, 1937; Ph.D., The Ohio State University, 1940.

Dr. Shaw is recognized nationally as a scholar in the field of soil science. His research on water relations in soil and soil structure has provided a basis for much of the present-day research in these areas. He served with distinction as associate professor of agronomy at The Ohio State University and as agronomist for the United States Department of Agriculture. In 1952 he was appointed agricultural research administrator, United States Department of Agriculture, where he compiled an enviable record of administrative achievements. He was editor of the book, Soil Physical Conditions and Plant Growth.

HARRY H. SISLER, Gainesville, Florida

Executive Vice President, University of Florida.

B.S., The Ohio State University, 1936; M.S. 1937, Ph.D. 1939, University of Illinois.

Dr. Sisler is an outstanding teacher, scholar-researcher, author, and leader in the field of chemistry, and is widely known for his excellent textbooks and numerous published researches in inorganic chemistry. Before joining the University of Florida in 1956 as chairman of the Department of Chemistry, Dr. Sisler taught at the Chicago City Colleges, University of Kansas, and The Ohio State University. In addition to his academic responsibilities, he has served as a consultant to industry and government agencies and as a visiting scientist and lecturer for the National Science Foundation. His contributions to chemistry and higher education have brought him many honors.

EDWARD E. SLOWTER, Columbus, Ohio

Vice President, Battelle Memorial Institute.

B.Ch.E. 1934, M.Sc. 1935, Ch.E. 1939, The Ohio State University.

A research administrator, civic leader, and engineering innovator, Mr. Slowter has been associated with Battelle Memorial Institute since 1934. He has played a key role in the success and growth of Battelle through his technical and organizational abilities, for which he has become known internationally. He contributed importantly to the Battelle management group that assisted the Republic of Korea in establishing and operating the Korea Institute of Technology. He has done creative research on the effects of controlled atmospheres on alloy and carbon steels when new heat treating methods were emerging, and he holds several patents. Mr. Slowter has willingly served his profession and his community as an active participant in professional and civic organizations.

ARTHUR H. SMITH, Detroit, Michigan

Emeritus Professor and Head, Department of Physiological Chemistry, Wayne State University.

B.S. 1915, M.S. 1916, The Ohio State University; Ph.D., Yale University, 1920.

Professor Smith's career at Yale and Wayne State spans the development of the sciences of nutrition and biochemistry. A university professor in the finest tradition, he and his students have made outstanding contributions to our present knowledge of human nutrition, intermediary metabolism, water balance, and minerals. Professor Smith was a charter member of the American Institute of Nutrition and later served as its president. His honors include the Borden Prize in Nutrition. He has been active in civic affairs and is a leader in the scientific community, serving on numerous boards and committees for government agencies and professional groups.

GUY-HAROLD SMITH, Columbus, Ohio

Professor Emeritus of Geography, College of Social and Behavioral Sciences, The Ohio State University.

Ph.B. 1921, Ph.D. 1927, University of Wisconsin.

Professor Guy-Harold Smith has served The Ohio State University with unusual distinction as a scholar, teacher, and administrator. His cartographic work on slope and population maps has made an important contribution to geographic research. He has done pioneering work in conservation and has edited one of the leading texts in that field. For twenty-nine years he served as chairman of the Department of Geography which, under his guidance, became one of the leading graduate departments in the country.

DOUGLAS R. STANFIELD, Columbus, Ohio

Executive Vice President (Retired), Ohio Farm Bureau Federation.
B.S. 1927, M.A. 1934, The Ohio State University.

Douglas R. Stanfield is remembered as a successful executive and respected humanitarian. He was a leader of state and national programs dedicated to the improvement of agriculture in Ohio and throughout the nation. As executive vice president of the Ohio Farm Bureau Federation, he demonstrated unique ability to work effectively with executive, legislative, and judicial branches of state government and exhibited superb diplomacy in working with both political parties at state and national levels in securing the passage of legislation beneficial not only to agriculture but to all citizens.

* Deceased 1-26-70

VICTOR L. STEFFEL, Columbus, Ohio

Professor Emeritus of Prosthetics, College of Dentistry, The Ohio State University.

D.D.S., The Ohio State University, 1926; F.A.C.D., 1946; F.A.D.P., 1950.

Dr. Steffel joined the faculty of the College of Dentistry in 1926 and served continuously in the Division of Prosthetics until his retirement in 1967. The author of Principals and Techniques on Partial Denture Construction (1969), Dr. Steffel helped develop the American Association for Cleft Palate Rehabilitation; served for six years on the National Board of Dental Examiners; and for sixteen years was consultant in dentistry in the Veterans Administration. He was elected fellow in both the American College of Dentists and the Academy of Denture Prosthetics. He has contributed much to his community through his efforts for the United Appeal and the Optomist Club.

FERDINAND F. STONE, New Orleans, Louisiana

Professor of Law and Director, Institute of Comparative Law, Tulane University.

Dr. Stone's career in legal scholarship and teaching has been rich, varied, and fruitful. He has served as a member of the legal staff of the United States Supreme Court Advisory Committee on Rules and Procedures. He has taught at Tulane since 1937 and has been a visiting professor of law at several ranking European universities. He also did a comparative law study in Europe under a Rockefeller grant. The author of several well-known books and articles in the field of law, Dr. Stone has been awarded the Medal of Honor from the Free University of Brussels and a Doctor Honoris Causa degree from Grenoble University.

T. SCOTT SUTTON, Columbus, Ohio

Associate Dean Emeritus, College of Agriculture and Home Economics, The Ohio State University.

B.S. 1928, M.S. 1929, Ph.D. 1934, The Ohio State University.

An outstanding scientist, respected teacher, and successful administrator, Dean Sutton has held various posts during his thirty-eight years at The Ohio State University. His positions have included chairmanships in two departments, agricultural biochemistry (1948-51) and animal science (1951-55). While he was associate dean of the College of Agriculture and Home Economics (1957-67), Dean Sutton was also assistant director of the Ohio Agricultural Research and Development Center at Wooster. An authority on the nutrition of newborn animals, he has received awards from the American Feed Manufacturers and the Distillers Feed Research Council. He has been a leader in establishing agricultural universities in India and was program leader for the first OSU/AID Mission to India (1955-57). Since his retirement, he has served two years as the executive director of the Council of the United States Universities in India.

PAUL TAYLOR, New York, New York

Director, Paul Taylor Dance Company.

Attended Juilliard, Connecticut College School of Dance, Martha Graham School of Contemporary Dance.

Internationally known as a dancer, choreographer, and teacher, Mr. Taylor has conducted master classes and has served as guest artist for the Division of Dance at The Ohio State University. Three Ohio State graduates are included in the membership of his company. Mr. Taylor appeared as lead soloist with the Martha Graham Company (1955-61) and has also performed with the companies of Merce Cunningham, Pearl Lang, and Anna Sokolow. He established the Paul Taylor Dance Company in 1955 and with the company has made fourteen foreign tours, four of which were sponsored by the United States State Department.

WILLIAM VAN TIL, Terre Haute, Indiana

Coffman Distinguished Professor in Education, Indiana State University.

B.A. 1933, M.A. 1935, Columbia University; Ph.D., The Ohio State University, 1946.

Dr. Van Til has long been a leader in the field of education, with particular service to secondary education. Before joining the faculty of Indiana State University, he held a variety of teaching and administrative positions at New York University, George Peabody College for Teachers, University of Illinois, and The Ohio State University. In addition to numerous contributions to the literature of education, Dr. Van Till has also been distinguished as a leader in professional organizations, having served as president of the Association for Supervision and Curriculum Development, the John Dewey Society, and the National Society of College Teachers of Education.

JOHN G. WAGNER, Ann Arbor, Michigan

Professor of Pharmacy and Assistant Director for Research and Development of Pharmacy Service, University Hospital, University of Michigan.

Phm.B., University of Toronto, 1947; B.S.P. 1948, B.A. 1949, University of Saskatchewan; Ph.D., The Ohio State University, 1952.

Dr. Wagner has made major contributions in the area of pharmaceutical development of drugs, in both industrial and academic areas. He holds patents on some of the processes involved in the enteric coating of tablets and capsules. In recent years he has contributed markedly to the area of biopharmaceutics and pharmacokinetics. In recognition of his accomplishments, Dr. Wagner received one of the Dr. William E. Upjohn Awards and the coveted Ebert Prize, awarded by the American Pharmaceutical Association. He went to the University of Michigan in 1968, following fifteen years with the Upjohn Company.

EVERETT WALTERS, Boston, Massachusetts

Senior Vice President and Dean of Faculties, Boston University. A.B., University of Cincinnati, 1936; M.A. 1940, Ph.D. 1947, Columbia University.

Before going to Boston University in 1963, Dr. Walters had been associated with The Ohio State University for seventeen years as a member of the faculty in history and as dean (1957-63) of the Graduate School. As chairman of the editorial board, he was instrumental in formulating the new Ohio State University Press. Dr. Walters has served as chairman of the Graduate Conference on Graduate Study and Research, director of the Graduate Academic Programs Branch of the United States Office of Education, and editor of the Proceedings of the Association of Graduate Schools and of Graduate Education Today. He has contributed articles to many learned journals on history and higher education.

HARRY B. WARNER, Akron, Ohio

President, B.F. Goodrich Company.

B.Ch.E. 1938, M.Sc. 1939, Ch.E. 1947, The Ohio State University.

Mr. Warner is a distinguished chemical engineer, businessman, and civic leader with concern for urban renewal, hospital administration, and engineering education. Through technical and managerial leadership, he played a major role in making the B.F. Goodrich Company the largest producer of poly (vinyl chloride) resin, nitrile, and synthetic rubber. Mr. Warner, who has been with Goodrich since 1939, contributed importantly to the development of synthetic natural rubber, a milestone in rubber technology. He helped advance an international program for expanding technology and marketing plastics and rubber for forty foreign companies in one hundred countries. In addition to his many corporate responsibilities, Mr. Warner has been active in professional and civic affairs.

JOHN ROBERT WHITAKER, Davis, California

Professor of Food Science and Technology and Biochemist, University of California at Davis.

A.B., Berea College, 1951; Ph.D., The Ohio State University, 1954.

Professor Whitaker became interested in enzymes while working for his doctorate, when he demonstrated that a synthetic organic resin had catalytic properties similar to some natural enzymes. He has made outstanding contributions on the mode of action of proteases, protein molecular weight determinations, and purification of proteins by chromatography and gel electrophoresis, in which field he is the author of an authoritative treatise. In addition to his scientific contributions, Professor Whitaker is highly respected as a teacher and academic leader.

KENNETH B. WOODS, Lafayette, Indiana

Goss Professor of Engineering, Purdue University.

B.C.E. 1932, C.E. 1937, The Ohio State University.

An international authority on soils and foundations, Professor Woods did early research on permafrost, formulated much of the ground theory for soil mechanics at low temperatures, and pioneered in the use of photogrammetry to survey and identify soil formations and distributions. He has directed significant research on highway design problems and has led national advances in highway engineering. As an international consultant on highway problems, he has visited Alaska, Canada, Greenland, and the Arctic Islands. Professor Woods has taught at Purdue since 1939 and was head of the School of Engineering and director of the Joint Highways Research Project (1954-65).

W. HAYES YEAGER, Columbus, Ohio

Professor and Chairman Emeritus of Speech, College of Social and Behavioral Sciences, The Ohio State University.

B.A. 1919, M.A. 1926, The Ohio State University; LL.D., Morris Harvey College, 1956.

For twenty-three years Professor Yeager served as professor and chairman of the Department of Speech at The Ohio State University. Early in his career he taught at the University of Illinois, leaving the post to become executive officer of the Department of Speech at George Washington University (1929-45). He acted as a communications consultant to the United States Air Force from 1953 to 1956. National acclaim and recognition by his peers brought him the presidency of the Speech Association of America. Professor Yeager has authored a number of textbooks and many professional articles.

FREDERICK P. ZUSPAN, Chicago, Illinois

Joseph Boliver DeLee Professor and Chairman, Department of Obstetrics and Gynecology, University of Chicago; Obstetrician/Gynecologist-In-Chief, Chicago Lying-In Hospital.

B.A. 1947, M.D. 1951, The Ohio State University.

Dr. Zuspan is active in the fields of medical education and research. His concern with human reproductive physiology has led to many pertinent discoveries, including new methods of analysis of epinephrine and norepinephrine in pregnant patients. He continues to pursue improvement of medical education, and his publications cover a wide span of knowledge in obstetrics and gynecology. He is a member of the editorial board of Excerpta Medica and editor of Lying-In, The Journal of Reproductive Medicine. Dr. Zuspan taught at the Medical College of Georgia and at Western Reserve University before joining the faculty of the University of Chicago.

COLUMBUS, O., Sept. 23.-- --Sir John McMichael, prominent British physician and medical researcher, will receive the honorary doctor of science degree from Ohio State University Tuesday (9/29).

The degree will be conferred by Dr. James A. Robinson, vice president for academic affairs and provost, at 9 a.m. in Ohio State's Center for Tomorrow, where Sir John will give the opening talk for an international symposium on digitalis Tuesday and Wednesday (9/29,30).

Title of his talk will be "History of the Development of Ideas about Digitalis."

Sir John, director of the British Post graduate Medical Federation, University of London, has been a notable contributor to cardiovascular research since the mid-1930's.

He introduced cardiac catheterization to England and is credited with many of the early and significant observations on pulmonary circulation and cardiac output in man.

He was among the first researchers to contribute knowledge on the effects of digitalis on hemodynamics (blood function) in man, and he reported several basic observations on alterations in central hemodynamics in cardiovascular

Oxford historian gets top degree

By CHRIS HINDMAN

Lantern Staff Writer

Sir Ronald Syme was awarded an honorary Doctor of Letters degree Monday.

The degree was conferred upon Syme, Camden Professor Emeritus at Oxford University, by James A. Robinson, vice president for academic affairs, in the Center for Tomorrow auditorium.

Prior to the ceremony Syme discussed the degree saying, "I think it is very pleasant. One doesn't have to have it, you know, but it is delightful."

Syme, who is currently lecturing at Columbia University in New York, has also lectured at Harvard, the University of California at Berkeley and the University of Istanbul.

A native of New Zealand, Syme has specialized in ancient Greece and Rome and classical philology and literature. He also received a Knighthood award in 1959.

Roman historian

The official program called Syme "the most distinguished historian of ancient Rome in the English-speaking world."

Two of Syme's books are landmarks in the history of modern classical scholarship.

"The Roman Revolution" is a fundamental study of the collapse of the Roman republic. "Tacitus," the subject of Syme's address at the ceremony, is the most authoritative work on Rome's foremost historical writer.

Syme, a smiling man with a gray-blond mustache, sees history as "discovery which deepens the understanding, a liberal and liberating force." He feels one must trace American history back to ancient Rome.

'Americans open'

Syme's observations, however, are not limited to classical or American colonial history. He feels contemporary American civilization is "very attractive." He calls Americans "open" and thinks they accept their fellow men on individual merit.

Syme at one time saw a grudge in England against the United States, but he feels it is disappearing now as more Englishmen are turning to the study of American history and literature.

"A bit pessimistic" is how Syme feels about today's youth. He thinks the university should offer an education, not a home, to its students.

In Syme's opinion, current epidemics of violence in America may be traced to the earliest roots of the country. He feels that the possession of guns is a great contributor to violence.

The American Council on Education, through the cooperation of its institutional members, has established the Academic Costume Code, which has been adopted almost completely by institutions of higher learning in this country. The following information is provided for the benefit of visitors to academic ceremonies at The Ohio State University.

THE GOWN

Bachelor

Black, full cut with long pointed sleeves.

Master

Black, long or short sleeves with arc-shaped panel extended for each sleeve.

Doctor

Black, with velvet panels on front of gown and three velvet bars on each sleeve. Color of the velvet may be black or distinctive of the field of study.

THE HOOD

Bachelor

Three feet in length with a two-inch wide velvet.*

Master

Three and one-half feet in length with a three-inch wide velvet.*

Doctor

Four feet in length with a five-inch wide velvet and panel at the sides.

The lining of all hoods, which is folded out, bears the official colors of the institution from which the degree was received. The color of the velvet on all hoods indicates the field of study as follows:

Agriculture	Maize
Arts, Letters, Humanities	White
