*Oh! come let's sing Ohio's praise,
And songs to Alma Mater raise;
While our hearts rebounding thrill,
With joy which death alone can still.
Summer's heat or Winter's cold,

COMMENCEMENT ADDRESS

E. Gordon Gee

Doctor of Education

The 11th president of Ohio State, E. Gordon Gee is a nationally recognized spokesman for higher education. He became Ohio State's chief executive officer in September 1990 and will assume the presidency of Brown University on January 1, 1998.

During his tenure at Ohio State, Dr. Gee has overseen a comprehensive planning and restructuring effort to position the university among the nation's most highly regarded institutions of higher learning. With his characteristic charm and passion for his work, he has traveled throughout Ohio and the nation, building support for the university and for higher education among alumni, public officials, educators, friends, and news media.

Along the way, he has found his own recognition as a national academic leader and one of Ohio's most familiar and admired citizens. Dr. Gee was recently elected chair of the Association of American Universities. He heads the Kellogg Commission on the Future of State and Land-Grant Universities, a national panel of 25 current and former university presidents who are studying critical issues and reforms in higher education, and he is a member of the Board of Directors of the National Association of State Universities and Land-Grant Colleges.

A native of Utah, he received a bachelor's degree in history from the University of Utah in 1968 and a law degree and doctorate in education from Columbia University in 1971 and 1972, respectively. At Columbia, he was a Harlan Fiske Stone Scholar and Kellogg Fellow. He returned to the University of Utah, serving as assistant law dean, and in 1975 he joined the faculty of Brigham Young University as associate law dean and professor of law. In 1979 he was named dean of West Virginia University's law school.

He became one of the country's youngest university presidents when he assumed the leadership of West Virginia University in 1981 at the age of 37. Dr. Gee became president of the University of Colorado in 1985.

Dr. Gee has received numerous honors in the fields of law and education. He has authored or co-authored seven books, including Information Literacy: Revolution in the Library, which won the American Library Association's G.K. Hall Award in 1990 for outstanding contribution to library literature. The second edition of his Education Law and the Public Schools: A Compendium was published this year.

Today's address to the graduating class will be Dr. Gee's final one as president of Ohio State.

RECIPIENTS OF HONORS

John W. Berry

Doctor of Business Administration

John W. Berry is chair of Berry Investments, Inc., Dayton, and president and trustee of the Loren M. Berry Foundation. He was a member of Ohio State's Board of Trustees from 1981 to 1990, serving as chair in 1989-90.

A Dayton native, Mr. Berry received his bachelor's degree from Dartmouth College in 1944. While serving in the U. S. Army, he also attended Louisiana State University's School of Engineering. In 1940, he began his career with L. M. Berry and Co., which pioneered the use of "yellow pages" for telephone directory advertising, becoming president in 1963 and chair and CEO in 1973. By 1986, when the firm was sold to BellSouth, it had grown to be the second-largest telephone directory advertising sales firm in the United States.

During his tenure as an Ohio State trustee, Mr. Berry saw the university through its first $1 billion budget and the 1985-90 capital campaign, which raised $460 million in private gifts for university projects and programs. He currently serves on the university's Business Advisory Council, The Ohio State University Foundation Board, and the National Gifts Committee. He is honorary co-chair of the 1995-2000 University Campaign and is a member of the National Campaign Executive Committee. He received the university's Distinguished Service Award in 1995.

Mr. Berry has been a generous benefactor to Ohio State, establishing the Berry Chair of New Technologies in Marketing in 1985. An auditorium and an atrium in the new Fisher College of Business complex, now under construction, have been named for Mr. Berry in recognition of his support.

His community involvement has included service on the boards of the Air Force Museum Foundation, the U. S. Business and Industrial Council, the Dayton Chamber of Commerce, United Way of Dayton, and the Dayton Urban League. In 1996, the Fine and Performing Arts Center at the University of Rio Grande was named in honor of Mr. Berry.

It is with deep gratitude that Ohio State recognizes the business acumen and strong leadership of this dedicated friend of the university.

E. Willard Miller

Doctor of Science

E. Willard Miller has been professor emeritus of geography and • associate dean emeritus of the College of Earth and Mineral Sciences at The Pennsylvania State University since his 1980 retirement. Dr. Miller remains active in the field of geography through his writing and his continued involvement in numerous professional organizations.

A native of Pennsylvania, Dr. Miller received his B.S. degree from Clarion University in 1937, his A. M. from the University of Nebraska in 1939, and his doctorate from Ohio State in 1942. Following a brief stint at Western Reserve University, he went to Washington, D.C., as a geographer in the wartime Office of Strategic Services. In 1943, he played a key role in founding the American Society for Professional Geographers and was serving as president of that organization when it merged with the Association of American Geographers in 1948.

In 1945, Dr. Miller was hired by Penn State to create a Department of Geography, and under his leadership, it grew into one of the premier departments in the country, ranking first in the nation in the 1995 National Research Council ratings. When the Division of Geography achieved departmental status in 1953, Dr. Miller served as head until 1963 when he was named assistant dean for resident instruction in the College of Earth and Mineral Sciences. He became associate dean in 1972. During his tenure, he was responsible for establishing an interdisciplinary major in earth sciences, now the largest major in the college, and a major in polymer science.

He is the founder of the Pennsylvania Geographical Society and has been contributing editor to the group's magazine, The Pennsylvania Geographer, since 1960. He has written and presented numerous papers to professional organizations and authored or co-authored more than 20 books as well as magazine articles and book chapters on topics ranging from Pennsylvania geography and mineral resources to environmental issues. He has also co-authored with his wife, Ruby, more than 40 bibliographies on a wide range of topics.

He has received numerous awards and recognition for his work in geographic education, including a Distinguished Mentor Award from the National Council for Geographic Education and the Science Leadership Award from the Pennsylvania Academy of Sciences. He recently led a successful legislative effort to get geography back into the Pennsylvania public schools.

Ohio State proudly recognizes the many achievements of this distinguished and dedicated educator, scholar, and scientist.

RECIPIENTS OF HONORS

J. Robert Warmbrod

Distinguished Service Award

J Robert Warmbrod was named Distinguished University Professor Emeritus in 1995 after nearly three decades of academic leadership at Ohio State. Prior to his retirement, he had been professor in the Department of Agricultural Education since 1968. In 1989, he was named Presidential Professor, an honor given to one Ohio State faculty member each year who represents exceptional excellence in teaching, advising, research, and service to the university.

Dr. Warmbrod earned his B.S. degree in agricultural education in 1952 and his M.S. in education in 1954 from the University of Tennessee in Knoxville. He received his doctorate in education in 1962 from the University of Illinois in Urbana, joining that university's College of Education faculty in the Department of Vocational and Technical Education. In 1967, he became a consultant to Ohio State's Center for Vocational and Technical Education and joined the Ohio State faculty the following year.

He served as professor and chair of the Department of Agricultural Education from 1978 to 1986. Under his leadership, the department developed to the extent that, in 1986, it was recognized as the most outstanding department of agricultural education in the nation. Twice a recipient of Ohio State's Alumni Award for Distinguished Teaching (1972 and 1995), Dr. Warmbrod has advised 25 master's and 48 doctoral candidates, many of whom are now in positions of academic leadership at land-grant institutions throughout the country.

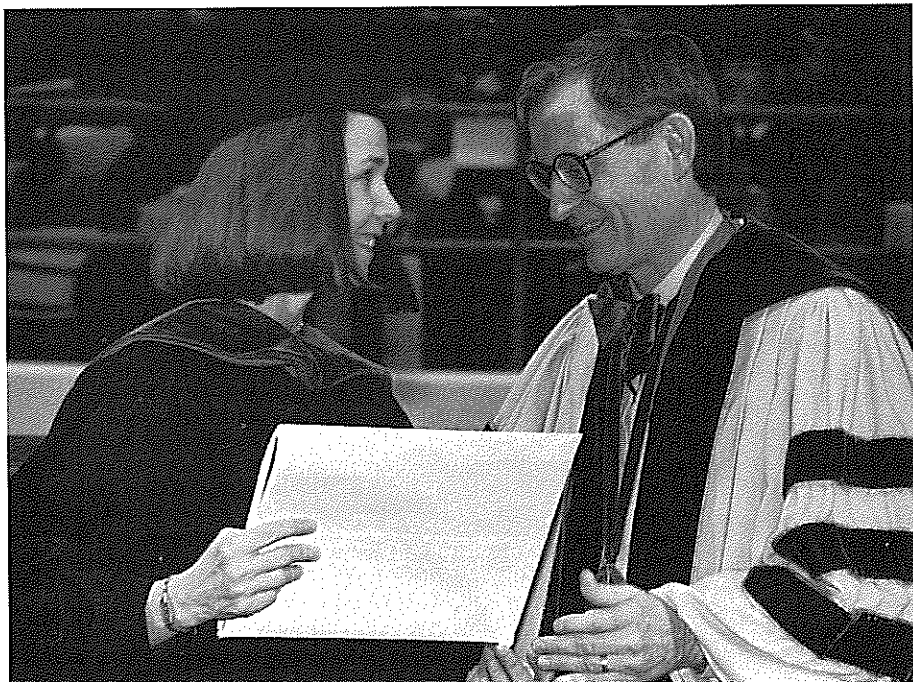

During his tenure at Ohio State, he served in a number of important administrative positions, including acting associate dean and acting vice president for agricultural administration and dean in the then College of Agriculture, now the College of Food, Agricultural, and Environmental Sciences. In addition, he has served on 22 universitywide and 16 college committees, often as chair, giving valuable input on promotion and tenure, graduate education governance, the academic approval process, and the rules of the university.

Among his many awards are the Ohio Vocational Association's Vocational Educator of the Year, the American Association of Teacher Educators in Agriculture's Outstanding Agricultural Educator Award, and the American Vocational Education Research Association's Meritorious Service Award.

For his incomparable contributions as administrator, teacher, and mentor, Ohio State proudly recognizes the service of this outstanding member of the university community.

A MESSAGE FROM PRESIDENT GEE

Most of us measure our lives in year-long cycles, beginning in January and ending in December. But those of us in education observe a different calendar—one in which the year-end celebration is a graduation, and the days are counted in quarters or semesters.

For college students, the cycle begins that first autumn when they arrive on campus and advances through classes and exams, vacations and summer jobs, until commencement day finally arrives. And that day comes once each quarter when students from Ohio State graduate to the cheers of proud relatives and friends.

Now, these newly minted alumni will look back briefly and move on, shifting into the day-to-day rhythms of hoped-for employment. They will leave behind late nights filled with cold pizza and hot debate. No more 7:30 in the morning classes, but instead a 7:30 commute to the office. No more papers due for class, but reports due for work. They will trade their backpacks for briefcases, their ball caps for business suits.

There is no doubt that they have been changed by their college experience. Those years spent at a major research university represent not only a growth in knowledge, but a growth in wisdom and common sense—a maturing process that prepares a student for life in the “real world.” And that world does not stand still.

We need only look at the capitals of the world and the corporations of America to realize that powerful forces have been at work. During the time it has taken this most recent crop of graduates to complete their educations, the Soviet Union has come apart, Germany has come together, ethnic warfare has erupted, trade barriers have fallen, and once-mighty businesses have been brought to their knees by economic forces.

Today’s graduates are being launched into a world made smaller by the media and larger by the scope of our global dilemmas: the environment, ethics, illiteracy, racism, sexism, revolution, protest, famine, and poverty.

The world is crying for the compassion and creativity of our graduates. And we need their considerable energy and ingenuity to resolve conflicts, regain civility, and restore our spirits.

That is why, for all of us, graduation is a time that renews our hope in the future. As I preside over Ohio State’s commencement, I am impressed by the intelligence, dedication, and vigor of our new college graduates, young and not so young. And I feel an old, familiar feeling: optimism. Optimism about the actions our industries are taking to regain a competitive edge. Optimism about the adjustments education is making in response to a changing society. And most of all, optimism about and faith in this new generation that is about to take its place in our society.

Today as many of them leave school behind, their memories are bittersweet. One of Ohio State’s engineering graduates sent me a letter that, I believe, captures the great joy we share in this special rite of passage and the strength of the educational process. She wrote, “There will be at least one chemical engineer with a tear in her eye as the national anthem is played, a lump in her throat as her college is introduced, a smile on her face as she gets her diploma, and a cry of joy as her father hugs her and says, ‘I am so proud of you!’”

It is a pride in which we can all share. I thank this graduate, and thousands like her, for all they will bring to our society. They are very bright. They work very hard. They have learned to live without security, but they continue to seek it. They are ready not only to cope with change, but to create change. And they have turned away from “me-ism” and are again seeking ways to help their fellow human beings.

I am confident that when this generation assumes leadership, America will be in very good hands.

THE ACADEMIC COSTUME

The colorful ceremonies of The Ohio State University Commencements derive from practices originating in the Middle Ages. When European universities were taking form in the 12th and 13th centuries, the scholars were usually clerics, and consequently they adopted costumes similar to those of their monastic orders. Cold halls and drafty buildings called for caps and floor-length capes with attached hoods, and the sobering influence of the church probably influenced the staid character of the caps and gowns.

As the control of the universities gradually passed from the church, some aspects of the costumes took on brighter hues. Old prints and engravings, however, reveal a strong similarity between the regalia worn in early universities and that of the present day.

In the light of our nation's English heritage, academic costume has been in use in the United States since colonial times. To establish a standard of uniformity in regard to the practice, an intercollegiate commission was formed to prepare a code for caps, gowns, and hoods that has since been adopted by all academic institutions.

Originally round, the shape of the cap is now the familiar mortarboard square—a shape which, according to ballad folklore, resembles a scholar's book. Legend also has it that the privilege of wearing a cap was the initial right of a freed Roman slave; the academic cap, therefore, has become a sign of the freedom of scholarship. The flowing gown has become symbolic of the democracy of scholarship, for it covers any dress that might indicate rank or social status. The hood, reserved at The Ohio State University for those receiving doctoral degrees, not only indicates the type of degree, but also is lined with the official colors of the university.

The Gown

Bachelor: Black, full cut with long pointed sleeves.

Master: Black, long or short sleeves with a reshaped panel extended for each sleeve.

Doctor: Black with velvet panels on front of gown and three velvet bars on each sleeve. Color of the velvet may be black or distinctive of the field of study.

Honors Emblem

The Ohio State University honors emblem is a scarlet and gray tasseled braid worn over the gown. Students eligible for this curricular honor are those graduating summa cum laude, magna cum laude, cum laude, with distinction, with honors in the liberal arts, and with honors in pharmacy.

The Hood

Bachelor: Three feet long with a two-inch-wide velvet edging.*

Master: Three and one-half feet long with a three-inch-wide velvet edging.*

Doctor: Four feet in length with a five-inch-wide velvet edging and panel at the sides.

* Not usually worn by candidates for a degree.

The lining of all hoods, which is folded out, bears the official colors of the institution granting the degree. The color of the velvet indicates the field of study:

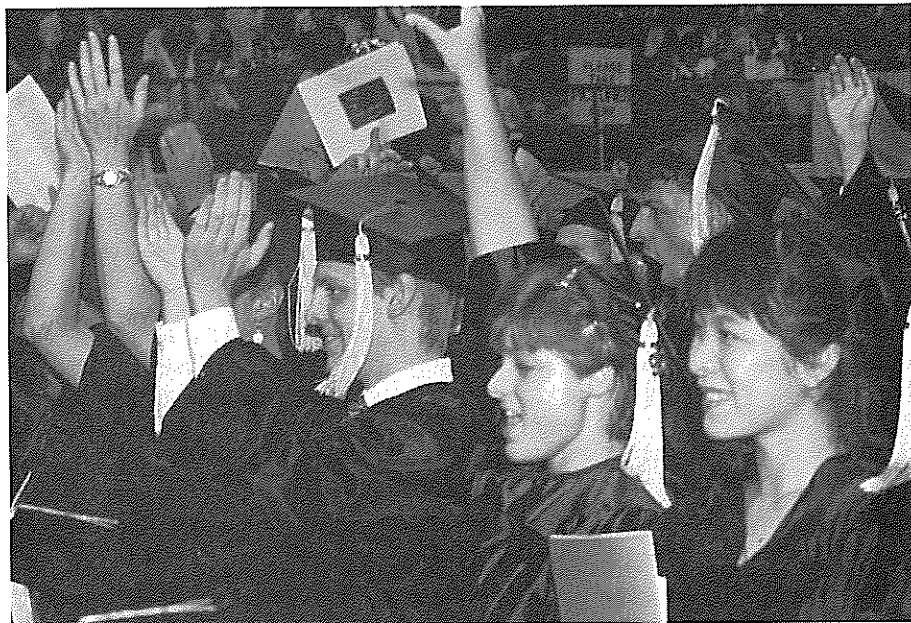

Dentistry	Lilac
Law	Purple
Medicine	Green
Musical Arts	Pink
Optometry	Seafoam Green
Pharmacy	Olive Green
Philosophy	Dark Blue
Veterinary Medicine	Gray

Cap and Tassel

Candidates for degrees at The Ohio State University wear the black mortarboard with a tassel whose color is distinctive of the degree being received. The tassel colors are as follows:

Graduate School	Black
Colleges of the Arts and Sciences
College of the Arts (B.A., B.S.I.D.)	White
(Others)	Brown
School of Music (B.A.)	White
(Others)	Pink
College of Biological Sciences	White
College of Humanities	White
College of Mathematical and Physical Sciences	White

The gold tassel is worn frequently by those holding the doctoral degree and by college and university administrative officers.
